What you need to win the World Championship.

Hans Alser—European Men's singles Table Tennis champion 1970, International Table Tennis Team Coach.

"If you take your table tennis seriously you will have to devote all your spare time to the game. You'll need constant practice, expert coaching, superb fitness and the best table tennis equipment you can afford. I recommend Stiga equipment. I use a Stiga Mark V bat with my special Alser handle in all my games. The weight, balance and grip couldn't be better. And I practice on a Stiga table, use Stiga balls, even carry a Stiga bag. There's no better equipment to help you on to success."

Stellan Bengtsson—World Men's singles Table Tennis champion 1971 and doubles champion 1973. European singles champion 1972.

"To win a major championship you need talent, perfect tactics, extreme physical fitness and the world's finest equipment. And that's Stiga equipment. I helped design my Stiga Mark V bat with the Stellan handle. I tested it over and over again until it was exactly right. I'd recommend anyone to play with a Stiga bat. They're made with special plywood in five layers, and are surfaced with Asaka sponge rubber in various qualities. Remember, unless your bat is right, your game won't be."

Kjell Johansson—World doubles Table Tennis champion 1969 and 1973.

"Obviously you've got to be instinctively good at the game to make a champion. And you need to train hard. I recommend a Stiga robot trainer for ball play if you are learning the game. I train for all my big matches with Stiga equipment. And I use a Stiga Mark V bat with my special 'Kjell' handle in every game. Of course there are other, less expensive Stiga bats too—each the best available bat in its class. There's no doubt about it. Stiga equipment is unbeatable."
