

Item 6 Response from Neil Rogers, Head of Competitions and Events to the NC Competition Review Sub Committee paper

The first meeting of the new Competition Advisory Committee has taken place – the main order of business was the Competition Review, which has been on hold since December in order for additional proposals from National Council to be considered.

The Committee advised, and Board has subsequently agreed, to move forward with the Competition Review as currently written. This confirms Boards decision from December to sign-off Phase 2 of the Review.

The Committee noted that the National Council proposals represented some welcome potential ideas, and that the Committee would look further at whether it was desirable to incorporate any of these suggestions at a later date

Phase 3 of the Review will now include adding detail to each of the proposed competition formats, working-up the resource/ regulatory/ budget.
