

Analysis of a girl playing in the NCL

Please see girl player on 243 points ranked 17 in U13 girls

Playing 10 matches in NCL

She lost 19 points yet was ranked to win 7/10 players as they had lower ranking points but in the boys.

She actually won 3/10 (one unranked player as well who lost everything gaining 1 point and 2 expected wins)

In comparison she played in a 1 star at the weekend (another starter event) winning 5 matches losing 1 (no 4 in the U13 rankings) it was against all girls gaining the 18 points she had lost.

Potentially it could have been a lot worse in the NCL. If she had lost all the matches it could have been -46 points

Almost 20% of the girl's points taking three years to get.

If a parent or player looks at that they would not play, however we take the view not to tell the players or parents.

If she played same players for 4 weekends and got same results she would end NCL with minus 76 points (31% of her total points won).

Hence we should cap the points totals and move girls playing boys to 0.5 ranking

In the instance shown below she would have lost 8 points with same results if capped at 400 for the boys and 600 for the girls at a 0.5 rating
