BUTTERFLY

MATCH TABLES

Selected for the English Senior National Championships, 27th Feb – 1st March 2015, Redbridge Sports & Leisure Centre, Barkingside

The surface increases the consistency and reliability of the bounce against both topspin and chop. It reduces the skid and gives you more confidence to play your shots.

B4-2 Butterfly Europa 25

Used in many international tournaments. 25mm playing top, with the Sky look undercarriage. Very strong metal frame and legs. Folds away easily for storage, with the use of a unique spring loaded safety mechanism. New, large wheels included. ITTF approved. Includes a Butterfly National League ITTF approved net & post set.

B4-15 Butterfly Octet 25

A top quality heavy duty match table featuring the Sky design. Ideal for clubs or sports centres where the ease of putting tables up and down is a priority. The 25mm Anti-skid playing surface gives a more consistent and true bounce so providing a suitable table for the highest playing standards. The top is protected by a strong metal frame. Each half has four wheels to facilitate easy movement and height adjusters on each leg to enable the playing surface to remain completely level. Uses minimal storage space, ITTF Approved. Includes a Butterfly National League ITTF approved net & post set.

B4-16 Butterfly Centrefold Rollaway 25

The top of the range model with the new Sky design which is ideal for clubs or sports centres needing a strong durable match standard table for daily use. It folds away and stores very conveniently. The 25mm playing surface with the Anti-skid feature makes it ideal for international play. The top is protected by a strong steel rim. The foldaway system is easy to operate and is based on the Space Saver system. This model has stronger wheels for easier transportation. Height adjusters on all 4 legs. ITTF approved. Delivered ready assembled. Includes a Butterfly National League ITTF approved net & post set.

Welcome

I am delighted to welcome you to Redbridge Sports & Leisure Centre for the 56th English Senior National Championships. I hope everyone enjoys a great weekend of table tennis.

It doesn't seem 12 months ago since our last showcase championship. But as I look back, much has happened and I truly believe all aspects of table tennis are stronger now than they were a year ago.

We are here at a time when table tennis has turned a corner and the future is looking healthier and more positive than it has been for some years.

We have our elite players, most of whom are here today, making great strides in international competitions and this is reflected by the overall improvement in our standing in world rankings.

Since the last National Championships we have had the Commonwealth Games in Glasgow. Many congratulations to our players on their successes. One of my abiding memories and proudest moments was seeing all six places on the medal podium occupied by English players in the mixed doubles.

We are also pleased to see some of our younger players coming through the performance pathway and making successful inroads into the senior game.

Off the table, we have also had cause to look towards a brighter future.

A few weeks ago we were told by Sport England, our main sponsoring partner, that we were back on track. Two years ago, table tennis had been placed on 'special measures' and our future and funding was seriously under threat. We have spent the 18 months ensuring that we are now 'fit for purpose' as a governing body, and as a result, Sport England has recently reaffirmed its confidence in us and has confirmed our funding for the next two years.

This allows us to begin again to plan for the future with confidence and surety. I promise that we will be player-focused from social participant, club beginner, league player, through to our elite athletes. We will work with our clubs, leagues, regions, coaches and volunteers to deliver the best form of table tennis to all our participants. We have come a long way but we still have some distance to go.

I will be at the National Championships along with members of the Table Tennis England Board and the senior management team. Please come and talk to us about any issues on your mind. We want to hear your views and it will help us deliver our long-term strategy for the sport.

Thanks

There are many people for me to thank for putting on this tournament. Our professional team at Table Tennis England work tirelessly at improving not just this event, but all our tournaments around the country during the year. I am grateful to our many volunteers and officials, without whom events such as this could not take place.

Also, many thanks to our equipment sponsors of this event, Tees Sport, who have supported us throughout the season at many events.

Thanks also to our guests who are attending, many of whom have, themselves, held titles at this tournament in past years.

Special mention also to Matt Crane and his team at Redbridge Sport and Leisure Centre for their help to bringing this together.

And finally, thanks to the players, their coaches and their supporters. We hope you play well and enjoy the competition.

Table tennis . . . a sport for all, for life!

Liam's aiming to be Pitch perfect

in bid for title hat-trick

Liam Pitchford has his sights set on joining an elite band of players to have won a hat-trick of National Men's Singles titles.

The Chesterfield man took his maiden senior singles title two years ago and successfully defended his crown last year.

A third successive triumph would see him join Chester Barnes, Denis Neale and Alan Cooke in achieving that milestone – the great Desmond Douglas is virtually over the horizon with nine titles in a row between 1979 and 1987.

The man Liam beat on both occasions was Paul Drinkhall, who in turn had defeated him in the 2012 final, and the smart money is certain to be on the top two seeds meeting again in the title-deciding match here in Redbridge.

It's an outcome Liam himself is predicting – though he admits both men will face a tough challenge on the way.

"I'm going there to win it," says the 21-year-old. "I won it the last two times and it would be nice to make it three in a row, but it's going to be a tough tournament.

"We've got two players in the world top 50 and me and Paul (Drinkhall) are probably heavy favourites – we've played the last three finals against each other and at the moment it's looking like it will be that again.

"But you never know on the day. Sam Walker played well in Hungary (he reached the last 32 of the men's and quarter-finals of the under-21 singles).

"He's training at Ochsenhausen with me and he's working really hard and it's nice to see he's got some good results.

"I haven't seen much of the others, but you've obviously got Andrew (Baggaley), Danny (Reed) and Darius (Knight) – and David McBeath is practising out in Germany and he can play well.

"It's going to be a good challenge but hopefully I can play well and it's going to be a great tournament."

Walker's success in Hungary saw him climb almost 100 places to a career-high of No 175 in the world rankings and follows Drinkhall's rise to No 33 on the back of his run to the final of the Russian Open and appearance at the Grand Finals. It means Liam is no longer the leading English player in the rankings. And while he would love to reclaim that position, he sees the bigger picture in terms of a group of English players all pushing each other to improve both their rankings and their games.

"I think it's great for English table tennis that we have two players in the top 50 for the first time in a while," he says. "I don't think many people saw it happening a few years back but we've worked hard and improved.

"Me and Paul get on well, we're friends off the table. If we play, we'll have a good match – there's not going to be any bad blood or anything like that – but I think it's going to spur us both on.

"It's nice to have that now and hopefully Sam, or whoever else is No 3, can improve and when we get to the World Team Championships in Malaysia next year we'll compete well.

"Last year surpassed everyone's expectations but I don't see why we can't do it again. We're all still improving and we're all still young."

Much of the credit for Liam's ascent up the world rankings lies in his professional status, playing for TFF Liebherr Ochsenhausen in Germany.

After a recent Bundesliga match, he was even able to talk to the media in German.

"It was my first interview in German," he said. "I can understand pretty much everything but you need the confidence to speak. I'm getting there and hopefully I'll be fluent one day.

"It gives you a bit more confidence in yourself to speak another language, so I'm doing my best."

Liam's hoping it will be 'Pitchford über alles' in Redbridge.

Paul Stimpson

I have intentions of coming back – I can't imagine my life without table tennis

Joanna Drinkhall admits it will be a strange feeling attending the Senior Nationals as a spectator rather than defending the Women's Singles title she won last year.

The top-ranked English player will be in Redbridge to support her husband Paul and as an interested onlooker, but will not be competing because she is expecting the couple's first child.

And although she is excited about impending parenthood, she says it has not always been easy to step away from the table.

"It's been weird," said the 27-year-old. "I stopped in November – I haven't played properly but I've done a bit of coaching here and there. It was nice for the first week, then I thought 'what shall I do?' You get used to being active and after more than a week off you start climbing the walls a bit.

"To be there as a spectator will probably be a bit weird as well – I haven't been and watched without playing for a while – and whenever you watch, you're itching to play.

"But I definitely know I can't play, so it's not really an option. The fact that I'm expecting is a far more exciting prospect. It's something different in my life that I'm really looking forward to.

"If I have to forfeit a few tournaments . . . as a female athlete you're always going to miss something when you decide you want a family – but it's worth it at the end of the day.

"I won the Nationals last year and won the Commonwealth Games gold last summer, so it's worked out really well that I've done those before having kids. It's worked out perfectly."

Although Jo will not be defending her title, the other top English players will be here in Redbridge, including fellow Commonwealth Games team members Kelly Sibley, Tin-Tin Ho, Hannah Hicks and Karina Le Fevre.

So who does last year's champion have to take her title?

"From previous years Kelly is the favourite," she said. "But looking at previous years, tough matches. Karina got close to Kelly. Tin hasn't been far off, but Kelly has the skill and experience.

"Perhaps there's more pressure on Kelly, but I definitely think she's favourite to win before you get there and she's aware of that. As I say, she's got a lot of support on her side. If anyone beats her, she deserves to win it."

Of the others potentially in the running as a one up-and-coming star as a

"I'll be interested to see how she performs," she said. "When someone is close to me and Kelly, they've got a lot of pressure, but Maria is pretty as much herself, but she's upped her game and has both aspects.

"There's also Hannah Hicks, while Emma Vickers can always play well on her good days."

Jo is also pleased that the Nationals is breaking new ground by moving to the Jean Brown Arena at Redbridge Sports & Leisure Centre.

"I've never seen the arena before, but it's great to be a bit closer to home," she said. "It's been in Sheffield for however many years and it's refreshing having it somewhere else. Hopefully, people will enjoy it.

"I don't see why it should always be in the same place – we could do with sharing it around the country and I'd rather be travelling to different places than going to the same one every year."

With the baby – which the couple know will be a boy – due on May 20, will Jo be back and looking to add to her tally of titles, wherever the Nationals are held in future?

"I've got to wait and see how it goes but I can't imagine not playing," she said. "I can't imagine my life without table tennis. I have intentions of coming back but you never know how you're going to feel."

Table Tennis England's Development Department is responsible for supporting our clubs, encouraging participation and implementing initiatives to deliver a diverse and dynamic sport which transforms lives, connects communities and achieves excellence.

Here are some initiatives the department is promoting or implementing this year:

Ping! is the street ping pong project which sees tables placed across cities for people to play on for free. This year Ping! will be launching in June and we are looking for volunteers to help support the project in our cities. If you are interested in getting involved, please contact andy.james@tabletennisengland.co.uk

Save the date! National Table Tennis Day will be taking place on July 16th. This summer, we're planning a nationwide event to challenge clubs, schools, businesses, table tennis players, fans and the general public to get your bats out and celebrate our sport with a series of spectacular events of your own invention! Keep an eye on Table Tennis England's website for more information.

This Girl Can is a national campaign developed by Sport England with the aim of getting more women active in sport. Want to find out more about the campaign? Check out Table Tennis England's This Girl Can webpage www.tabletennisengland.co.uk/this_girl_can/

Club Matters, the essential one-stop-shop for sports clubs, will provide your club with support, learning, resources and guidance on all aspects of running a club whether it is large, small, formal or informal. It's completely free and it could really help your club so please have a look www.sportenglandclubmatters.com

PremierClub is the Table Tennis England club affiliation programme. Our aim is to create a national network of clubs that work together to grow participation in table tennis and support existing players to create a community from which future

Internationals will emerge. To find out about the benefits and how your club can get involved please email us at development@tabletennisengland.co.uk

Ability Club is part of the PremierClub affiliation programme to raise awareness in clubs and to support players with a disability. A free table tennis disability awareness course is available for clubs to improve their knowledge and skills. If you are interested in getting more people with disabilities involved within your club and want to find out more, please contact the Clubs & Disability Officer – steven.mcfadyen@tabletennisengland.co.uk

We offer a range of leadership courses aimed at 15-to-19 year olds. These courses aim to provide individuals with an introduction to the sport and provide them with the knowledge and skills to teach the game. Check out <http://tabletennisengland.co.uk/coaching/coaching-subpages/leadership/> to find out more information about either the Young Officials Award or the Table Tennis Networker course.

This spring and summer the department will be launching a number of new exciting initiatives aimed at workplaces, multi-sport environments, further education and higher education institutions. Would you like to introduce table tennis to your workplace? If so, please register your interest to Keely.Glenister@tabletennisengland.co.uk.

For more details about all of our initiatives keep an eye on the Table Tennis England website and follow us on twitter @ DeveloPING_TT

The Guernsey Trophy has not always been the trophy awarded to the Men's Singles Champion at the English National Championships.

It superseded the original trophy in 1973 following the England team's success at the Guernsey Table Tennis Association's 50th Anniversary Tournament held in May 1972.

Eight teams competed for the solid silver trophy. Denis Neale, Nicky Jarvis, David Alderson and Karenza Mathews, captained by Bryan Merrett, were the England team. The players comfortably won their group against Wales, Guernsey and the Netherlands before defeating Scotland in the first round of the play-offs 4-1. The final against West Germany's team of Klaus Schmittinger, Gunter Kocher and Wiebke Hendrikson was another 4-1 victory.

Denis went on to complete a hat-trick of individual titles, the Men's Singles, Men's Doubles with Nicky Jarvis and the Mixed Doubles with Karenza Mathews. Karenza also won the Women's Singles event. So all in all a very successful and profitable tournament for England.

It was subsequently decided to use this trophy for the Men's Singles Champion at the National Championships. The first recipient was Trevor Taylor in 1973, the second year he had won the title. Denis Neale was the only member of the team who helped England secure the trophy in 1972 to hold it again, as National Champion, in 1975 and 1977.

The wonder years of Desmond Douglas were to follow, with nine consecutive titles between 1979 and 1987 plus additional titles in 1976 and 1990.

Other holders of this trophy have been: Chester Barnes, Paul Day, Chen Xinhua, Carl Prean, Matthew Syed, Alan Cooke, Alex Perry, Andrew Baggaley, Paul Drinkhall and Liam Pitchford.
